

PRESS NOTE

“Sweat more in the peace and bleed less in the battle”, says Mahesh M Bhagwat IPS.

“Cheyuta” Isolation Centre would assist in the third wave of the pandemic if required.

Sri Mahesh M Bhagwat IPS, Commissioner of Police, Rachakonda has felicitated the representatives of program “Cheyuta”, a unique initiative taken by Rachakonda Police Commissionerate in association with “Keats” Engineering College, Kakinada and Rajha Convention Centre Yapral which aimed at providing isolation facilities to the Police personnel tested positive.

“Cheyuta” is an isolation centre inaugurated by Dr G. Srinivasa Rao, Director of Public Health Government of Telanagana on May 27, 2021, consists of 30 beds that include 5 Oxygen beds intended for Police personnel who have tested positive and suffering from the lack of sufficient rooms to spend their quarantine period at home. Rajha Convention centre provided the required space to set up this centre and Tulsi Hospital providing emergency medical services to the patients.

Speaking to the media CP stated that the thought of providing an isolation centre for Rachakonda Police is a noble gesture and will be remembered in the future as well. CP reminded everyone about the significance of separate rooms and washrooms during the quarantine period for the persons who tested positive. CP stated that the isolation centre is a great help for the police who tested positive to keep themselves away from the family members which could affect them if they spend their quarantine period at home.

CP said “Keats” has set up this isolation centre to assist the front line warriors who fought the pandemic in the field. CP said people have utilized this opportunity lesser than expected since the second wave started to decline. CP opined that this is a great experience and will be useful to set up an isolation centre in 3rd wave of the pandemic if required in less time.

CP stated that “Cheyuta” will be remained a good example for collective partnership and commended Subrahmanyam, Giridhar of “Keats”, Anil, Sai of Rajha convention centre. CP especially appreciated the Doctors and paramedical staff working in the isolation centre.

